God is sweeter than honey; His ways more valuable than gold.

When I was in high school, I took a sociology class that told how, in New York City, hoodlums would set up three card monte games that they rigged to snooker people out of money. Later, when I visited New York City, I saw this first hand. I tried to warn the victim, but the thugs yelled at me and discouraged me, so I left the scene. Satan is like this. He likes to get people alone and devour them with fear, anxiety, depression, evil, and hurt. And if anyone tries to help his victims, like those thugs, he tries to scare them away. As a Christian, I want to fight evil. I want to fight satan, and reduce his carnage. I do this through my cartoons, but my cartoons don't go very far, so I want to do this in person too. Satan is very powerful and evil to the core. He is black soot tar mean. He deludes people and leads them off to death, where those who don't believe end in hell, a place of everlasting torment. Satan will never tell you that you are going there. He just hopes to lull you off to sleep as you die. I know because I was caught in his web. He gives only sinful urges: things that lead to death. When God saved me, I didn't realize how bad off I was. I used to smoke pot and draw cartoons not even realizing I was on my way to hell. I idolized myself and didn't even realize I was doing something wrong. But boy did I learn my mistake when I almost died! Satan led me to think I was god. It sounds preposterous now, but I believed it hook, line, and sinker. That satanic being is meaner than mean. He is diabolic: dark black. But, through Christ, God gives us the victory over him. I've spent many years in anxiety and depression as satan railed against me, but now he can no longer stop me. I realize God loves me and that God supports me. I can fight evil! That is what God saved me for: to fight His enemies and win! When the Israelites fought their enemies, God told them to be strong and courageous: He was with them. And God is with me. It took so long to realize, but now I do. Every day is different and I need my daily bread, but no longer will I sit on the sidelines. I am going to follow God all the way. I trust the Lord. Nothing can stop the Lord. We are to blame for cooperating with satan, but God gives us mercy when we believe in Him. Jesus died to forgive all our sins, even the willful ones. I never realized how dark my own heart is, but God is merciful every day. I encourage you to put your faith in Him. Read the Bible to learn about Him. Lock arms with others by attending Church. You will not regret it. You will find your life's purpose. You were made for Him! There is no sweeter thing.
